DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Chief John McFarland has issued a warning, inspired by his investigation of the case of one man who has been in town this week, against persons renting rooms to men strangers who do not pay their rental in advance. The chief also suggests that such men should not be permitted free run of the house on account of the danger of their racketing it. The man whom the chief interviewed after the fellow had been complained against for panhandling was ordered out of town. He had hired a room at one of the good houses of the town, representing that he was to be employed here during the winter.

Members of the junior class of Killingly High school are industriously applying themselves to the task of obtaining funds sufficient to meet the demands to be made on the class resources during the present scholastic year. Thursday afternoon the class held a food sale at Gallup's market.

A party of members of the Danielson Girls' club has planned to be in Williamstown Saturday next as guests of the members of the Williamstown Girls' club, who have invited them to spend a day in the Thetford city. The local girls will make the trip in motor cars.

A new brick school is being erected at the site of the M. D. Tool company at Elmville.

A delegation of Danielson republicans is going to be in Putnam on Saturday evening to attend the rally at which Senator Frank B. Brandegee will be the main attraction. Mrs. Brandegee and Mrs. M. Sperry of Bridgeport are to be the speakers.

Persons who sit up next Tuesday night to hear election returns may well make up their minds now as to whether they are going to have a tedious period of hanging around before getting any real definite information. It is estimated by men who have been familiar with the handling of election returns and the counting of ballots that from three to five hours longer than usual will be required to get final results announced. This will be chiefly due to the large number of extra ballots to be counted this year and the likelihood of there being many split tickets—where persons want to vote for one candidate for a minor office but who is not a member of their political party.

The polls are not scheduled to close in Killingly until 6 p. m. This probably means that it will be necessary to wait before the final announcements relative to the vote are made, though some line on representatives and the vote on judge of probate and state senator may be forecasted by ten or 11 o'clock.

The Bohemian club has arranged to have a special wire run to their quarters had a telegraph operator will be on duty there all evening, and will in the small hours of the morning, if interest does not lag before that time.

The Keep Smiling store will also show returns from its bulletin board, so the local public will be able to keep in touch with what has happened during the day throughout the country.

Funeral services for Andrew Gages, secret service agent, who died at sea while en route to Belgium, were held on Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock at the Sacred Heart church in West Putnam. Rev. J. C. Mathieu was celebrant of the high mass of requiem. Burial was in the Sacred Heart cemetery. Father Mathieu reading the committal service. The bearers were Horace New, Damascus New, William Pratt, Joseph Couture, Horacio Gregoire and O. V. Charlier. Louis E. Kennedy was the funeral director.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur G. Hill have recently returned from a motor trip to St. Johnsbury, Vt. and a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Lester Hill, now residents in that city, where the younger Mr. Hill is associated with his father-in-law in the lumber business. Mr. and Mrs. Lester Hill are expected here for a visit at the end of this week.

Among the latest thefts reported is one of about 40 meat sacks from a wagon owned by Robert Saunders, which was stolen by a man who has quite a definitely fixed idea as to the identity of the thief. A number of the members of Putnam lodge No. 1000, who are residents in Danielson and other parts of the town, were at the funeral of the late Mr. Gages, who died at sea while en route to Belgium.

Returns as to the vote on representative in the town of Canterbury will be awaited with more than passing interest Tuesday evening next, because of the fact that there was such a warm contest of effort to land the nomination, which went to Mrs. Lillian, and the other republican candidate, E. Pitt Johnson.

Mrs. Pratt's nomination having been won after such a warm struggle there is interest in knowing how loyal the rank and file will be to her at the polls. In republican circles it is believed that she will be elected and will be the first woman to represent the town of Canterbury in the Connecticut legislature.

Returns filed with the assessors show that more than 50 automobiles and other motor vehicles are owned in the town of Killingly. Attention also is being called to the fact that a considerable number of owners of machines have not filed returns upon them and by so doing are attempting to evade the law. Assessors, however, have the lists of the state motor vehicle department available and will be able to check up all motor vehicle owners who do not make the taxing return required.

The River's End, the feature picture that has just been shown at the Orpheum theater, was declared to be one of the best productions seen here for a long time.

Dr. E. F. Perry of Putnam was a visitor in Danielson on Thursday.

PUTNAM

This (Friday) evening's republican rally at which Ella Vicens of Woonsocket is to speak in French in St. John's hall, Providence street, is expected to bring together several hundred of the French-speaking residents of the city. The rally will be preceded by a parade which will start at Union square and proceed to the hall.

A total of 2475 men and women will be entitled to participate in next Tuesday's election in the town of Putnam. Of this number 1547 are men and 928 women. Mr. G. Carver, one of the registrars of voters, said on Thursday that the registrars have had a big task to complete the voting lists. Mr. Carver said that about 8 out of every ten women who expressed any cautious preference registered with the republican party in Putnam.

A firing squad will be a valuer over the grave of Rev. Anselm Mayotte, after the burial in St. Mary's cemetery Saturday morning. Commander Edward J. Perry of the local post of the American Legion was busy Thursday with arrangements for the part the legion post will take in the impressive military funeral service for the late pastor. It is expected that a large number of former service men will participate in the ceremonies as a mark of respect to the chaplain-officer for whom the local post of the legion is named.

While democrats about town were expressing Thursday their unbounded confidence that Cox will be elected president next Tuesday, none were willing to back their faith with their money. Neither would they accept bets that Lonsger will defeat Brandegee. On the other hand, the republicans in Putnam seem to feel that all is over but the shouting, and that there does not seem the slightest chance that Harding will be defeated. Practically no election bets are being made in Putnam, though there is plenty of money offered by backers of the republican candidates.

The body of Mrs. Annie M. Bemis, who died at Middletown, arrived in this city and was taken in charge by a local undertaker. Mrs. Bemis was the widow of Augustin Bemis, the family formerly living at East Woodstock, where Mrs. Bemis is to be buried.

On a recent evening, the stars of Nathaniel Sherman at Phoenixville in the town of Eastford was broken into and raided by burglars. Thieves seem to be epidemic in practically all of eastern Windham county towns at the present time and property cannot be too carefully guarded.

Announcement was made by the Putnam Men's club that a special wire will be run to the vestry of the Congregational church so that returns from the election may be received there next Tuesday evening. This arrangement is especially made in the interest of the hundreds of voters of the city, who would not find it convenient to stand about the streets or lobby about where many men would be congregated.

N. Waldo Kennedy of Eastford, formerly of this city, is scheduled to deliver addresses in behalf of Harding and Cullidge and other republican nominees at Moseus and at Plainfield this (Friday) evening. Mr. Kennedy has been putting in a strenuous week in the interest of the republican party and has talked at a number of meetings in different sections of eastern Connecticut.

Rev. W. W. Rath, Norwich, district superintendent, is to be the preacher at a service to be held at the Methodist church in West Putnam Sunday afternoon at 2:30. The musical part of the programme is to be made especially interesting and church members of this city have been invited to attend the service and join in the singing of the grand old hymns to be used.

An effort was being made Thursday to check up the losses resulting from the fire at the residence of the late Arthur S. Hardy, which was destroyed by fire on Wednesday night. No clue has been found that would help toward identifying the parties responsible for the break, which may have resulted in a loss of a very considerable amount of property of a personal nature.

Hamilton Holt, who headed the delegation of pro-league republicans, who received Wednesday by President Wilson at the White House, is a summer resident of Woodstock and a familiar figure on the streets of this city during the warm season of the year.

Recovering from the shock that came during the night, Thursday brought the first rainstorm in exactly four weeks. During the long drawn out dry period, October produced country roads have been badly cut up by traffic and much of the highway surfaces have been blown away. Thursday's rain was also welcomed by rural residents who have found their sources of planted water supply so depleted that they have had to carry water for their stock.

Alvan T. Sweet, recent purchaser of the Putnam farm on Putnam Hill, near the summer place of Attorney and Mr. Charles I. Torrey, has brought his family from Springfield to the new home.

Illness among the pupils, the North school in Putnam, where cases of diphtheria and measles have developed, is closed for the present.

E. C. Murley, formerly of this city, who was recently presented at the Hotel Ouse in New Haven, a Masonic charm and chain, the gift of his railway mail clerks. Mr. Murley having recently retired from that service on a pension, after serving the government many years.

Tuesday evening of this week, the first local meeting of the New England and Producers' Association was held at South Windham. Great interest was shown in the rating system which is proposed by the Central Association. The principle of the rating system, in proposed, is to make the man who sends surplus milk to market stand the loss, each farmer to receive a rating according to the three months during which he has been sending milk to market, and the rating is to be made by the rating system that was just, and this seems to combine some of the better features of the old "Rating Plan" leaving out some of the undesirable features.

Thomas Marra was elected delegate to the county meeting, to be held in the Farmers' union hall on November 15. An appropriation of fifteen dollars was made to defray part of the expenses of the delegate to the meeting of the Central Association.

William F. Spokesfield was elected president of the local to succeed himself, and was chosen to go or send someone else to attend this meeting. There were plant is again in operation after having suspended while a steam heating plant was being installed. The concern is engaged in making manifest.

The republicans of Killingly crowded the town hall beyond its seating capacity Thursday evening, at a rally at which Benedict M. Holden of Hartford and Congressman Richard P. French of New London were the speakers. E. I. Darbie, chairman of the republican town committee, presided. State Treasurer J. Harold Gilpatrick and Archibald MacDonald of Putnam were among the well known republicans present. Hundreds lined the streets to witness the parade that preceded the meeting, the Wauregan band and marching club came in the greater part of the parade. Much red fire was burned and the spectacle reminded one of the old-time campaign days.

Mrs. Annie Hutchins, organist of the Congregational church, was taken to the Day-Kimball hospital at Putnam Thursday to undergo an operation for appendicitis.

Henry A. Frank of Lowell has been visiting friends in Danielson.
